EXPERIENCE

The family, who has owned and operated the historic furnace on the island of Murano since 1397, now opens its doors to a sophisticated audience to share the family's tradition in the art of glass making over the past six centuries. The 23rd generation of the Seguso legacy is honored to extend this possibility to all who possess a love for art glass and beauty. This unique and extraordinary experience shares knowledge, secrets and passions, which are guaranteed to emotionally move the audience to feel the real soul of Murano. All visitors will travel through time; a journey made of real authentic flavors, colors and atmosphere handed down from generation to generation. A specialized guide will conduct you during all the visit.

A multi-sensory journey inside the authentic Seguso glass works. a journey into art, tradition and passion.

Gianluca and Pierpaolo Seguso's inspiration for this magical visit comes from their desire to raise the bar and deliver a fresh and unique Experience to visitors and show the true soul of Murano, as an alternative way to really feel the Murano glass art and passion difference from the more commercial and touristic influences that exist throughout the island.

You may choose to culminate your evening with an aperitif or with a dinner, all served with elegance and sophistication immersed in the artistry and creativity of the setting.

CORRIERE DELLA SERA La storica Seguso apre le porte della fornace Soffi di fuoco tra lampadari di Murano Il viaggio in notturna nella vetreria a una parte una delle più antiche famiglie di Murano, i Seguso, dediti all'arte del vetro dal 1397 e da 22 generazioni; dall'altra, il fascino di una fornace dove quella materia così fragile e trasparente nasce dalla forza del fuoco e dalla sapienza artigiana. Così si svolge l'insolito viaggio in notturna nei segreti della storica ditta veneziana, caschetto in testa e atmosfera a tratti irreale (complici i fastosi lampadari di allestiti lungo il percorso in una scenografia emozionale). In occasione della Biennale d'Architettura di Venezia, per la prima volta una fornace apre le sue porte di notte. L'invito alla Seguso Experience (questa la denominazione delle serate) continuerà fino al 10 settembre. E permetterà di scoprire tutte le fasi della lavorazione del vetro. Obiettivo, renderla un'attrazione del «saper fare» italiano. Tutte le notti fino al 10 settembre, dalle 21 alle 24; ingresso libero. Fondamenta Venier 48, Murano. www.seguso.com/experience

Timore reverenziale Visitatori alla fornace della Seguso, che si trova

New York Times - October 19th, 2014

It was an inauspicious start to a journey that many a trusted tastemaker advised me not to take. At Seguso, among the oldest and most revered names o n the island — going back 23 generations to 1397 — the trend is toward custom everything, including the tours available to visitors. Rather than marching crowds of tourists through its operations, Seguso has created "Night in the Furnace" dinner events and "Glass Experience" tours for six or fewer guests, to spend several hours seeing every aspect of the glassmaking process and its long history in the hands of Seguso maestros.

The current generation's grandfather, Archimede Seguso, was a pioneer in revolutionizing the industry in the mid-20th century. The prolific family has had many ventures on the island, withstanding the tides of taste and fortune.

Because we wanted visitors to feel the furnace, to use all of their senses, from the heat that flares up the body, to the touch of the material being created.
