

1

BRIGHT LIGHTS

Several high-end crystal companies, recognizing the need to expand their reach into other home furnishings categories, have delved into the world of interiors. They have put their unique stamp on the lighting category with a handful of stunning chandeliers. Here are some of the newest offerings. — Allison Zisko

2

3

4

5

1 | Lalique

Lalique will introduce Orgue, Olivia Putman's debut lighting collection, this month, evoking nostalgia for simple and pure lines, while producing "the effect of a rain shower of light," according to Putman. cristallalique.fr

2 | Artel

Czech Republic-based Artel is offering two new color options for its made-to-order Verdure chandelier—purple, shown, and ink. artelglass.com

3 | Baccarat

The limited-edition Shizuku 12-light LED chandelier is part of Baccarat's Sora Collection, designed by Eriko Horiki and comprised of crystal and washi paper. It blends Eastern and Western traditions and features Baccarat's signature red crystal. baccarat.fr

4 | Seguso Viro

The Vento chandelier features a lighting design inspired by the style of the traditional Venetian chandeliers, but removed of all decoration for a simplified, timeless interpretation. It's available in a variety of Murano glass colors. seguso.com

5 | Waterford

Waterford Interiors, a new brand that launches this month, includes the Etoile Nouveau Chandelier designed by Billy Canning, who in the past 24 years has designed and managed multi-million dollar bespoke lighting projects worldwide. waterford.com